Eddington Co. Driver Lost On Horse Bets

Bensalem Police Apprehend Employee In South Jersey

A Hill Crest Dairy milkman faced an embezzlement charge in Bucks County prison today after he admitted to Bensalem police that he lost $822 of the company's money "playing the ponies."

Edmunds Balodis, 677 Roosevelt street, Seabrook, N.J., was picked up by New Jersey state police, waived extradition and was brought back to face charges by Chief William Riempp and Sgt. Eugene Ashton of the Bensalem force.

Balodis, a displaced person from Latvia, who police reported may also have to face deportation, wears an artificial arm.

He told police, "I needed a new arm. I thought it would be a cinch to get the money by playing the ponies. Instead I lost the whole bundle in three days."

Police said the company was aware of the short funds on Aug. 29. When the shortage was discovered, Balodis was given a week to make restitution. He never returned to work at the end of his week of grace.

Picked Up In Jersey

The company was then forced to file a complaint and Balodis was picked up yesterday in Hammon, N.J.

Balodis kept an accurate account of every penny he took from customers along his route. Police confiscated as evidence a slip of paper showing over 40 collections.

The Eddington dairy company became suspicious when other customers visited Balodis' customers while he was on vacation. The records of the customers and the company accounts failed to tally.

Balodis was held this morning in default of $1000 bail. Police reported he was penniless when picked up yesterday.

Alert Boy Helps Police

Francis Perrone, 23, Philadelphia, was being held in Bucks County prison today on a charge of burglarizing an air compressor from a farm behind Our Lady of Grace Cemetery on Lincoln Highway.

Perrone told Middletown township police he thought the abandoned compressor was "just an old piece of junk."

The Philadelphia man was tripped up by the alertness of the young son of cemetery superintendent Walter Kaye.

The boy saw Perrone pull up into the farm and examine the compressor. He told police he looked suspicious so he wrote down the license number of the truck.

About a half hour later, the truck returned to the farm, picked up the compressor and started off.

Police picked up Perrone shortly thereafter on information received from the boy and another truck driver, who spotted the compressor in Perrone's truck.

Newtown Minister Is Bucks 3rd Polio Case

Bucks County's third case of polio of the year was reported this week by Dr. H. Jackson Davis, director of the county health department.

Dr. Davis said that Rev. Thomas J. McInnis, 29, of 31 North State street, Newtown, has been admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital with what is suspected as a mild case of bulbar poliomyelitis. Rev. McInnis, who is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newtown, showed only three of the ten cardinal symptoms of polio Dr. Davis said.

He added that Rev. McInnis is in satisfactory condition at the

Bristolians Urged To Keep Spirit Glowing

Gov. Leader Recalls Borough's Early Days In 275th Address

The tremendous, unprecedented community spirit generated in this week of festivities for Bristol's 275th Anniversary celebration should be used to build a new grandeur and glory for the town, guests at the anniversary banquet were told last night.

The plea was made by Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and anniversary historian, and by Bristol Burgess Anthony R. Nicol at the banquet-hall in the Warren Snyder school auditorium, with 450 persons attending.

A bright sun shone this morning on the Mill Street Fair, which was rained out yesterday, and gave a promise of clear skies for tomorrow's big Anniversary parade.

Governor George M. Leader, principal guest, hailed Bristol's early history as "the first story of America's pioneers" and the "story of man's search for freedom." The governor's address also cited recent achievements of the state government in welfare and school legislation.

TV Star on Hand

A score of public officials and dignitaries were introduced at the banquet, which many persons attended in Colonial costume. Toastmaster Pete Boyle entertained the guests with his humorous repartee in the auditorium. On his way in and out, the television star was besieged by young fans demanding autographs.

Following the banquet program, the guests danced until midnight to the orchestra of Jack Hopkins. Mrs. Hutton said the friendship and hospitality of Bristolians has been a distinguishing feature in the Anniversary events, through the open house tour and auction last Saturday, the religious procession.

Siles Church To Hold 2-Day Fair

The fifth annual Country Fair of the Scottsville Methodist Church, Siles, will be held two days this year, for the first time in history.

The fair, set for Nov. 2 and 3, was previously held only one afternoon and evening.

Fall colors will dominate the fair and booths and tables have been planned by every organization of the church. The event is under the direction of Mrs. Edward Goodman and Mrs. Alfred Griseck Sr., co-chairmen.

Nightly Dinners

A fish-pond game is planned for the youngsters, as well as movie cartoons. A hay ride is scheduled for young and old.

A main feature of the fair will be the nightly home-cooked dinners served by women of the church.

Christmas gifts and decorations, handicraft work, baked goods, white elephant articles, plants, apples on sticks, candy, soda and ice cream are some of the articles which will fill the tables and booths.

Sponsors expect the fair to be the largest ever, and urge all people to attend. Events are listed for the afternoon and evening of both days.

Group Plans Book Drive

Members of the Feasterville Businessmen's Association have agreed to initiate a drive for library books to aid Lower Southampton's new library in the basement of the Feasterville Elementary School.

Each businessman will place a sign in his establishment calling for books. The volumes will be collected at each place of business.

The Association has also announced that a set of new World encyclopedias is being purchased by the businessmen for the library. The set has been ordered, announced Dr. Robert L. Williams, publicity director of the association, and will be presented soon.

Edward Filemyr, the association's representative to the Lower Southampton Library Committee, announced at a recent meeting of the businessmen that a couple hundred new volumes were just purchased by the library organization.

Army, Bombs Are Issues

H-bomb tests, the draft and Sen. Joseph McCarthy figured prominently today in the latest campaign speeches by President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

Mr. Eisenhower, reported by White House aides to be fighting mad, said in Portland, Ore., Thursday night that "the road to surrender is paved with good intentions" such as Stevenson's "wishful" thinking proposals to end hydrogen bomb tests and the draft.

A tired Vice President Richard M. Nixon neared the end today of his second transcontinental campaign trip. He plans two days rest in Washington before setting out again for his final swing which will last until Election Day.

Construction bids on the proposed $277,300 nine-room addition to William Tennent High School, Johnsville, will be opened and considered Wednesday.

Contractors bidding on the project have been asked to submit a complete list of sub-contractors. School officials have not announced when they expect construction to start.

The addition calls for a shop, art room, commercial room, two general science rooms and four classrooms. Architects for the project are Micklewright and Mountford.

The nine-room addition is only the beginning of a long-range overall expansion project for the Tennent building, which served junior and senior high school students of Upper Southampton, Warminster and Ivyland.

The Centennial Joint School Board has already outlined tentative plans for a second project. The Centennial School Authority reviewed preliminary plans for the second expansion this week.

School officials hope to put the nine-room addition in use by September 1957, according to Dr. Everitt McDonald, regional superintendent.

Judges Picked For Art Event

George Douris, Neshaminy High School art instructor, and his wife, will judge Feasterville's Halloween window painting contest, it was announced today by Stanley Steinke, chairman of the event.

The contest, first in Feasterville's history, will be held next weekend under the sponsorship of the local Optimist Club. Window painting will take place Saturday, with judging slated Sunday.

Teams are being selected from each classroom of the upper three grades in Lower Southampton Township schools. Each team will have a store window on Bustleton pike or Street road. Teams painting prize-winning scenes will be given awards.

Halloween and autumn pictures are expected to cover most store windows in the Feasterville business area. Merchants have generously donated use of their windows, Mr. Steinke said.

Area residents and outsiders are invited to visit Feasterville and view the exhibit.

UN Receives Border Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. UP — Jordan and Israel carried their border dispute to the United Nations Security Council today. Jordanian diplomats said they would demand economic and diplomatic sanctions against Israel.

The 11-nation Security Council met to hear charges and counter-charges by both the Arab and Jewish nations and then planned to adjourn for private consultation on future action.

Jordan's complaint charged Israel with an "unprovoked and premeditated" attack on four border villages during the night of Oct. 10.

There'll be plenty to eat and lots of fun for everyone," said Mrs. Warren Kitter, of Somerton, publicity director for Temple Zion. "So, we urge everyone to attend," she added.

Mrs. Sol Block, of 3310 Lilac lane, Penn Valley Terrace, Trevoise, is in charge of tickets.

Temple Zion is a recently organized liberal reform Jewish congregation, which serves the communities of Southampton, Feasterville, Trevoise, Somerton and surrounding areas.

EXHUME ANOTHER

District Attorney Donald W. VanArtsdalen today petitioned the Bucks County Court for permission to exhume the body of Peter Flamma in connection with the fraud case against Dr. William M. Goldfarb, former deputy coroner of Bucks County.

Flamma's body is buried in Newtown cemetery. He was an itinerant farm worker and had no known relatives.

Rock 'n' Roll Fight

Elvis Win Called 'Houn' Dog Lie'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. UP — Elvis Presley today claimed a victory in his fight with two service station attendants, but one of his opponents said the rock 'n' roll singer was just telling another of "his 'houn' dog lies."

Presley and the two attendants, Ed Hopper, 42, and Aubrey Brown, 21, were ordered to appear in city court today to answer assault and battery and disorderly conduct charges which grew out of the brief scuffle.

Reports of exactly what happened at the filling station were conflicting.

Knife Attack Charged

Presley, who at first refused comment and was "out in the back yard feeding the mule" when reporters called, later held a news conference and accused Hopper of pulling a knife on him.

Hopper denied that he drew a knife and charged that Presley slugged him while a policeman held him with his arms pinned to (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Bride Faces Loss Of Leg

OKLAHOMA CITY UP — Mrs. Lary Jay, 17, married just Wednesday night, will have her right leg amputated today to prevent spreading of cancer—an operation everyone at the wedding knew was coming except the joyful bride.

Doctors hoped amputation of the leg just below the hip would prevent spreading of bone cancer, which eats away bone structure and could prove fatal.

Mrs. Jay, the former Cherrie Lee Thompson, bubbled with happiness Wednesday when she exchanged vows with Lary, a Korean War veteran stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C. He knew she faced a leg amputation and had secured an emergency furlough.

But Cherrie didn't know. She was told Thursday as her husband, her sweetheart for years, held her hand.

Dr. C. R. Rountree was understanding, but serious, as he broke the news. He told Cherrie X-rays indicated only the leg bone was infected. Whether the operation will halt the cancer, only time will tell, he said.

And we see where your old friend (not ours) Elvis Presley has socked a couple of gas station attendants.

Tremendous, this newly found twentieth century art called music. You see what some of its more cultural manifestations are?

Police Check Out Leads On Woman

Bensalem police were still searching for an Andalusia woman this morning with no success.

No new leads as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Florence Julliff, 1039 Buttonwood avenue, missing since Tuesday, have turned up.

Mrs. Julliff left home Tuesday to seek employment with RCA in Camden, she told her husband. She never arrived there.

Police said that they have received numerous calls from people claiming they have seen the missing woman. But after thorough checking all leads proved worthless.

Chief Riemp said in cases like this, "lots of people think they see the missing person. Few do. But we check them all out."

his side. Hopper sported a nifty shiner as evidence.

A third story was furnished by two patrolmen who were on the scene—R. E. Ferguson and D. L. Rogers. The patrolmen denied holding anyone, and said that Hopper first hit Presley and that the "Pelvis" responded by slugging Hopper in the eye and Brown on the cheek as he rushed to Hopper's aid.

Checking Gas Fumes

The incident started Thursday night when Presley, who has recorded such rock 'n' roll hits as "Houn' Dog," "Heartbreak Hotel" and "Don't Be Cruel" pulled his white Lincoln into a downtown service station to find out if gas fumes were leaking into the car through the air conditioner.

Hopper said he tried to find the trouble with Presley's car without success and twice asked the singer to move so that other cars could get up to the pumps.

Hopper said on the third trip, "Presley told me, 'I'll move when I'm ready.' That kind of made me mad. I slapped at him, kind of brushing his face, anyway I hit him."

Troop Needs Scoutmaster

Boy Scout Troop 48, Bristol Terrace One, is looking for a Scoutmaster. Walter Pitzonka, committee chairman of the troop, asks that interested men from Bristol Terrace One, Fleetwing Estates, or any surrounding portion of Bristol Township contact him within the next few days by calling WI-5-5243.

Mr. Pitzonka said that the scout ages of 11 to 14 are the moulding years for the boys' minds and bodies, and that every father having a son will want to share in this moulding of young manhood.

Troop 48 is one of the oldest troops in Bucks County and meets weekly at the Bristol Terrace One Community building.

22,000 Pupils In Area Have Free Day

Today was a holiday for some 22,000 Lower Bucks County school children as their teachers dropped their classes to return to school themselves.

Five school systems in this area closed down for the day as teachers participated in the "Schoolmen's Week" program at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

The Delhaas and Bristol township systems freed 8000 pupils today as a large delegation of teachers left for classes and lectures at the University of Pennsylvania.

Visit Fair

Bristol Borough schools were also closed and the students used the holiday as an opportunity to visit the Mill Street Fair in observance of the community's 275th anniversary.

Other systems having no school today are: Neshaminy with 5200 students; Bensalem with 3000 pupils; Centennial with 2800.

"Pupils in the Pennsylvania, Tullytown and Morrisville schools were not so lucky as classes were held as usual today.

The Centennial schools are in the midst of evaluating their programs and the faculty was not able to attend the sessions at the University of Pennsylvania. Classes were dismissed anyway as teachers attended numerous conferences within the system.

Highlighting the activities at Schoolmen's Week observance was a talk by Dr. Charles H. Boehm, head of the State Department of Public Instruction who is on leave as Bucks County Superintendent of Schools.

Cubs Turn To Nature

month-old drama group will get underway at 9 p.m. in the Trevoze Fire House, Street road.

Board Says 'More Teeth' Necessary

A building code for Bensalem township will be held in abeyance until "more teeth" can be put into the code, it was decided by township supervisors after a public meeting in the municipal building last night.

Representatives of civic groups and interested individuals cramped the quarters of the township building to hear the first reading of the proposed code.

Code Essential

It was almost the unanimous opinion of all present that a code for the township is essential.

One citizen said, "We should have had it ten years ago."

The code will control the design, construction and alteration of any building in the township. It will pertain to new buildings and to alteration on buildings already in the township.

The main emphasis of the code is "to protect the public safety, health and welfare" of the inhabitants of the townships.

Various suggestions were offered by residents as to how the code could be strengthened. More stringent regulations on plumbing, electrical requirements and foundations will be added to the code.

Code Provisions

The building code will provide for the appointment by the supervisors of a building inspector.

The inspector will have the power to check all construction and issue stop-work orders when it is deemed necessary.

It is provided in the code that the inspector will be generally informed on "engineering practices, plumbing, fire hazards, and other vital factors of construction."

Supervisors promised, "We will strive to pick the most qualified man for the job we can find without any regard to politics. We don't have anyone in mind at present," they said.

A fee will be levied for permits when the code goes into operation. It is the opinion of the supervisors that the money raised from the permits should be sufficient to pay the salary of the building official.

Details of the building inspector's position such as salary, hours and specific duties will be worked out after adoption of the code.

The supervisors were "pleased" with the meeting. They were encouraged by the good turnout and will strive to incorporate the suggestions of the public into the code, they said.

Firm To Start Building Plant In Middletown

Eastern Coating Company, of Philadelphia, is expected to start work shortly on its proposed pipe treating plant in Middletown Township, following the issuance of a building permit by township officials yesterday.

Angus T. Johnson, township manager, reported that the firm will start work on an all-purpose building, which will serve as an office, and storage building, as soon as possible. In addition there will be locker and washroom facilities for employees in the building.

The firm had submitted a request for a building permit last month but it was delayed until plans for a sewage disposal system were approved by the county health department.

Mr. Johnson said he understands the company wants to have the building completed before winter sets in.

The company has obtained a tract of land off the Reading Company's tracks near the Big Oak road. It will be used for the storage and coating of industrial steel pipes.

"U. N." Call Girl Ring Charged

NEW YORK UP — A shapely red-haired former displaced person faced a possible five years in prison and $10,000 fine today for allegedly running a "United Nations" call girl ring.

Nela Bogacki, alias Nelda Bogart, alias Nina Sandman, 32, was arraigned in Federal Court Thursday and accused of violating the Mann Act. The government charged her with operating an international call house that recruited glamor girls from at least five nations and possibly more for $25-$125 "dates."

The girls, like Miss Bogacki, were either displaced persons or visitors with transient permits, forbidden to work in this country.

275th Celebration Pushes Politics On Sidelines

By BOB REINHARDT

Courier and Times Staff Writer

We grown-ups will boast that Gov. Leader came to town when we recall the 275th Anniversary Celebration in years to come. But if you ask the kids who was Bristol's most distinguished visitor last night, they'll tell you it was Uncle Pete Boyle, the television emcee.

It took a dozen borough and township policemen to clear the way for Uncle Pete through the mob of young admirers at the Warren Snyder school, and they had no easy job of it.

The gray-haired TV star was supposed to arrive by helicopter, but weather forced him to cancel the flight. An airman piloted Uncle Pete to Bristol from the Philadelphia studio, however. He rode in Marty Green's car, behind a police escort.

Police lined the roads to escort Gov. Leader to the banquet, but the governor fooled them. He rode in a black new car with state policemen in plain clothes. Unescorted, the car arrived at the side of the school while a crowd awaited him out front.

The welcoming committee turned out to be Patrolmen William

Bolton and Walter VanDoren of Bristol borough police and Wallace Mitchner and Charles Haines of the township force, who threw him salutes.

Former U. S. Sen. Joseph R. Grundy was unable to accept an invitation to the banquet, but he was at the school beforehand to meet the governor in what spectators said was a thrilling experience. They didn't talk politics, but had a stimulating conversation on Bucks County today and yesterday.

General Chairman Danner, of the anniversary celebration committee, made public Mr. Grundy's letter of regret by reading it to the banquet guests.

"Unfortunately," Mr. Grundy wrote, "I am under the direction of a medical man who places my night life on the same footing as that of the lamp that was not expected to smoke in the house or go out nights."

"I will hope to see the governor and express to him my personal appreciation of his honoring our borough by his presence on this historic occasion."

A message from President Eisenhower was also read by Mr. Danner.

"To the citizens of Bristol joined in the 275th anniversary of their town, I send greetings," the president said.

"The industrial products of your town are indicative of your enterprise and your birthday greetings to me were a sign of your friendly spirit," Mr. Eisenhower said. "Together these make for a most attractive community and give promise of your continuing happiness and prosperity."

Both letters drew applause from the audience. Mr. Danner noted they were from Republicans, while the executives present, Gov. Leader and Burgess Niccol, were Democrats.

"Here we are right in the midst of a heated political discussion," the anniversary chairman said. "And yet they can say 'Let's stop this thing for a couple of hours and help Bristol celebrate.'"

Also sending regrets was the Lord Mayor of Bristol, England, G. A. Watson Allen, who sent best wishes in a telegram to Burgess Niccol. Lord Mayor Allen already holds the key to our Bristol, sent by Mr. Niccol last year via two English youths visiting the local Rotary club.

Across The World

By PAUL COMLY FRENCH

I recall a conversation several years ago with an Arab leader, in reading about the debate in the Israeli Parliament this week.

I had asked why they were unwilling to accept Israel and make peace. He gave me the official Arab position, then said Arab leaders felt peace was impossible because they believed Israel would seek to expand. And sooner or later they would have to defend lands they felt were rightfully theirs. I thought it unlikely Israel would attack Jordan or Syria, but he insisted the immigration policy of the new state would compel it to stop immigration or to extend frontiers over Jordan.

"They cannot halt immigration," he said, "because they fought the British under the mandate on that point and they are pledged to make Israel a homeland for all Jews from anywhere in the world. They cannot limit or stop immigration and therefore must seek expansion."

He insisted all Arab leaders believed this and sooner or later the war would be renewed.

At the time it made little sense to me that the Jews, who had suffered so much from the Nazis and other racial groups, would turn to aggression. Yet this week I read the debates on Ben-Gurion's message to the Parliament and was deeply troubled to see responsible members of the Knesset suggest Israel should move its frontier over the Jordan.

The basis of the suggestion resulted from the request by the Jordan king that Iraqi troops come into the country to support him.

Hussein has reason to fear for his security because of the active, Egyptian sponsored clique of young army officers who feel Nasser demonstrated the west is not so powerful as it had appeared.

They are part of the growing Nasser support in Arab lands, perhaps with the exception of Iraq, gaining strength daily. With a highly possible Jordan revolt, Syria might well have a similar experience and both nations would be under similar experience and both nations would be under domination of Nasser.

The king of Iraq is a cousin of the Jordanian king and certainly does not want to see him deposed. Iraq is also part of the Baghdad Pact and has strong British backing. The British feel a stable Jordan and a strong Iraq give them local support in the Suez Canal fight.

But the Israeli see an Iraq move as strengthening their foes and openly talk of action if the Iraq armored brigade at the Jordan frontier moves into Jordan. They Britain warned Israel not to move troops across the border if the Iraq brigade moves in. Secretary of State Dulles has said the situation is serious but we have no intention of getting involved.

From the strictly American political standpoint, however, it is hard to see how the United States can allow Israel to be involved in an Arab war with Britain on the Arab side, when the Jewish vote is important to the Republican party in several key cities and states.

If Israel feels it is so deeply threatened and does move, it will call for skillful diplomacy in Washington if the Republican Party is to hold the Jewish vote.

Bristolians Urged To Keep Spirit Glowing

Gov. Leader Recalls
Borough's Early Days
In 275th Address

The tremendous, unprecedented community spirit generated in this week of festivities for Bristol's 275th Anniversary celebration should be used to build a new grandeur and glory for the town, guests at the anniversary banquet were told last night.

The plea was made by Mrs. Ann Hawkes Hutton, author and anniversary historian, and by Bristol Burgess Anthony R. Niccol at the banquet ball in the Warren Snyder school auditorium, with 450 persons attending.

A bright sun shone this morning on the Mill Street Fair, which was rained out yesterday, and gave a promise of clear skies for tomorrow's big Anniversary parade.

Governor George M. Leader, principal guest, hailed Bristol's early history as "the first story of America's pioneers" and the "story of man's search for freedom." The governor's address also cited recent achievements of Good Evening!

Gentle calm after the storm—well, a little storm.

If these mornings get progressively cooler the kids soon will be taking their skates to school with 'em.

One of the prettiest sights in the world is sunrise over the Delaware. But hey, you can't stay in bed all day and see it.

Bristol folks did themselves proud last night with that 275th anniversary banquet with Governor Leader as the speaker. A nice affair, nice program and a fitting highlight for this week-long commemoration celebration. Gigantic parade tomorrow and then the show is done.

Real hit of last night's business, however, was Pete Boyle, the TV entertainer. At least that's what a thousand kids welcoming him at the outside of the banquet hall decided.

Well sir, we see where one of our boyish justices of the peace in Lower Bucks is really riding a silly illusion.

Now he's actually using the title "judge" and judging from that he probably believes he is one. Nickel and dime justice in Lower Bucks? We're getting it.

And we see where your old friend (not ours) Elvis Presley has socked a couple of gas station attendants.

Tremendous, this newly found twentieth century art called music. You see what some of its more cultural manifestations are?

Ohio police arrested a man who had three wives. There's a fellow who should be mighty thankful.

Now maybe we can have our nights. The mosquitoes have had their day.

Milkman Held On Embezzling $822 Receipts

Eddington Company
Driver Lost Money
Betting On Horses

A Hill Crest Dairy milkman faced an embezzlement charge in Bucks County prison today after he admitted to Bensalem police that he lost $822 of the company's money "playing the ponies."

Edmunds Balodis, 677 Roosevelt street, Seabrook, N.J., was picked up by New Jersey state police, waived extradition and was brought back to face charges by Chief William Riemp and Sgt. Eugene Ashton of the Bensalem force.

Balodis, a displaced person from Latvia, who police reported may also have to face deportation, wears an artificial arm.

He told police, "I needed a new arm. I thought it would be a cinch to get the money by playing the ponies. Instead I lost the whole bundle in three days."

Police said the company was aware of the short funds on Aug. 29. When the shortage was discovered, Balodis was given a week to make restitution. He never returned to work at the end of his week of grace.

Picked Up In Jersey

The company was then forced to file a complaint and Balodis was picked up yesterday in Hammon, N.J.

Balodis kept an accurate account of every penny he took from customers along his route.

Police confiscated as evidence a slip of paper showing over 40 collections.

The Eddington dairy company became suspicious when other customers visited Balodis' customers while he was on vacation. The records of the customers and the company accounts failed to tally.

Balodis was held this morning in default of $1000 bail.

Police reported he was penniless when picked up yesterday.

Elvis Wins Fight And Court Case

Old 'Houn' Dog' Freed
While Two Attendants
Are Fined; Gals Shriek

MEMPHIS, Tenn. —UP— Old "houn' dog" Elvis Presley, sporting a full bloom ducktail haircut and surrounded by shrieking female fans, successfully defended himself today against disorderly conduct charges growing out of his haymaker to the eye of a service station operator.

Ed Hopper, 42, and Aubrey Brown, 21, both filling station attendants, were fined on assault and battery charges. Disorderly charges against them were dismissed.

Hopper, who came to court following an altercation with the husky 21-year-old rock 'n roll singing star Thursday night, sported a shiner that almost had his left eye closed.

Hopper was fined $25 for doing battle with the idol of the teenagers. His fellow employee, who came to his aid when the fighting started, drew a $15 fine.

When Presley walked out of city court, he was pursued by howling girls who were frantic with joy over his victory in court. All parties were charged following the incident in Hopper's station which occurred when Presley allegedly refused to move his slick Lincoln so other cars could be serviced.

Presley, who at first refused comment and was "out in the back yard feeding the mule" when reporters called, later held a news conference and accused Hopper of pulling a knife on him.

Hopper denied that he drew a knife and charged that Presley slugged him while a policeman held him with his arms pinned to his side. Hopper sported a nifty shiner as evidence.

A third story was furnished by two patrolmen who were on the scene—R. E. Ferguson and D. L. Rogers. The patrolmen denied holding anyone, and said that Hopper

DA Asks To Exhume Body

District Attorney Donald W. VanArtsdalen today petitioned the Bucks County Court for permission to exhume the body of Peter Flamma in connection with the fraud case against Dr. William M. Goldfarb, former deputy coroner of Bucks County.

Flamma's body is buried in Newtown cemetery. He was an itinerant farm worker and had no known relatives.

Purpose of exhumation according to the district attorney is to establish that no autopsy was performed on the body. VanArtsdalen said Dr. Goldfarb charged the county $75 for an alleged autopsy.

The petition also invites Dr. Goldfarb's attorneys, Thomas McBride and Raymond J. Bradley, to be present at the exhumation.

The costs of the exhumation will be paid by the county, and later they may be applied to Goldfarb's trial costs if he is found guilty of the fraud and embezzlement charges.

Apparatus Also Smashes Pastor's Car

Four Fairless Hills firemen were injured at 10:30 this morning when their engine collided with a dump truck full of asphalt paving material at Levittown Parkway and Newportville-Fallsington road, sideswiped an automobile and landed in a ten-foot-deep ditch.

Bucks County Rescue Squad and Levittown Emergency Squad were called to take the injured firemen to the Lower Bucks County hospital.

They were:

Thomas Whyte, 30, 829 Weston road, the engine driver, admitted to the hospital with multiple brush burns and lacerations of the face, arms and legs, and a possible fractured shoulder.

Thomas Painter, Jr., 34, of 236 Oxford Valley road, seated beside the driver — pains in the leg, arm and side of chest.

Joseph Cassidy, 23, 833 Eldridge road, injury of the back.

William Sweeney, 31, 181 Fairfax road, pain in the hip.

Pinebrook Fire

Sgt. Bentley Chapin and Patrolman Robert Lawrence of Bristol township police, said the fire engine was going south on the Parkway, answering a call to the home of George Whitman, 38 Pensive lane, Pinebrook, Levittown, where an electrical fire was reported.

The blaze was brought under control by Falls township police and other firemen from Levittown and Falls.

The engine crossed the intersection past a red light, the officers said, and collided with a truck operated by Gene Trofe, Prospect avenue, Morrisville. Trofe reported no injuries.

The dump truck overturned and spilled several inches of hot asphalt on the road.

Pastor In Car

The fire engine spun right and hit a car driven by the Rev. Charles D. Whittaker, 29, pastor of Hulmeville Methodist Church, which had stopped to let it pass.

The Rev. Whittaker, his wife, Diana, 27, and their two children, David, 4 and Richard, 8 months, were shaken but reported no injuries.

Trofe said he did not see the fire engine approaching while driving past a green light at the intersection.

Parkway traffic was channeled to one lane while workmen removed the damaged vehicles, and cleared the spilled asphalt, which had begun to harden on the road.

$4000 Damage

Damage to the fire engine was estimated at $4000. The front was smashed and pushed back into the engine. The chassis was sticking through the front of the vehicle.

The left side of the engine was damaged, ladders, emergency and other equipment was smashed.

The firemen were thrown from the vehicle when it hit the ditch.

and Minority Inspector, Azele Croyle, 227 Quincy drive, all of Levittown.

The polling place for District Four will be the Walter Miller School, Chickenfoot road, Levittown.

Too Many Voters

Harold Hellyer, chief clerk of the county board of elections, told Judge Biester that the split was necessary because it would be impossible to handle the 2295 registered voters in District Three.

He said both political parties in the township were in favor of the split.

Hellyer also pointed out that District Three was formed from District Two last April. He said there were only 915 registered voters in District Three at that time.

The clerk also pointed out that District Three may have to be split into a District Five at a later date because of the rapid expansion of Levittown.

the state government in welfare and school legislation.

TV Star on Hand

A score of public officials and dignitaries were introduced at the banquet, which many persons attended in Colonial costume. Toastmaster Pete Boyle entertained the guests with his humorous repartee in the auditorium. On his way in and out, the television star was besieged by young fans demanding autographs.

Following the banquet program, the guests danced until midnight to the orchestra of Jack Hopkins.

Mrs. Hutton said the friendship and hospitality of Bristolians has been a distinguishing feature in the Anniversary events, through the open house tour and auction last Saturday, the religious program Sunday, the school pageant Monday, the Street Fair and the many other events.

"This quality of unity and friendliness is not new to Bristol," Mrs. Hutton said. "It must have something to do with our almost perfect location on the banks of the most beautiful river in America. The friendliness was here before we were. The Leni Lenape Indians, who called these shores home before any colonists arrived, were a warm and friendly people who helped the early Dutch and Swedish settlers, as well as the English.

Current Chapter

"You and I are writing the current chapter of the Bristol story," Mrs. Hutton concluded. "It is a chapter of immense promise because Bristol, like its county of Bucks, its state of Pennsylvania and its country, America, is on the threshold of the best years of its life."

Mr. Niccol concluded his remarks by presenting Gov. Leader with the key to Bristol borough.

"Would that I had the power to arouse all of our Bristolians to the appreciation that is justly due the marvelous history of our community," the burgess said.

"Would that I had the power to arouse all Bristolians not only regarding our glorious history but also have them realize and stir a crusading frenzy in relation to the tremendous potential that Bristol has.

"It is my sincere wish and hope that this celebration will be a real beginning of a dynamic outlook expressed in Bristol on the March."

Cite's Enterprise

Gov. Leader, in citing Bristol's importance in the history of American freedom said the town fathers of Bristol "were certainly in a good spot to judge the accomplishments of this freedom."

"They say the borough of Bristol became an important center of commerce," the governor said. "They noted the King's Path that passed through the community on its way from Philadelphia to Trenton. They were pleased to note the thriving boat traffic, the result of Samuel Clift's enterprise.

"The town fathers were so impressed with the commercial possibilities Bristol offered," he said, "that they even launched a most successful public relations campaign to further enhance their trade; in the Charter of 1720 they included a provision for a semi-annual fair. As a matter of fact, the three-day fair that started yesterday is the result of this Act of Law.

Turning to the present, Gov. Leader said state government should be measured by the same standard as is local government.

"Does it . . . fulfill its obligation to us—and to our future?"

He answered this by reporting Horace Schmidt.

A pair of ducks belonging to a family in the North Park section, is keeping the residents amused. Donald and Daisy, the ducks, always travel together. Where one goes, the other follows. It seems, according to Mrs. Francis Hickley, 23 Nasturtium lane, that the pair of water fowl are particularly fond of potato chips.

The benefactor died last summer, on a Western trip. He was a descendant of James Logan, an associate of William Penn in the founding of Pennsylvania.

The estate was used as an artists' and writers' colony, and in an experiment in communal living.

Officials of the Bucks County Planning Commission recently discussed the park plan with state officials. Other state parks in Bucks County are Washington Crossing and Ralph Stover Parks.

Next time you drive through the North Park section, take a look at the home of Joseph G. Parto, New Pond lane. It was brick-coated this week. The new exterior sure adds to the appearance.

Levittown women are well represented in the Bucks County Federation of Women's clubs. Five women are county chairmen. Mrs. Durwood LaMont, 7 Pleasant lane, Pinewood, is chairman of the Mental Health committee; Mrs. David Price, 83 Kingwood road, Lenwood, is chairman of the International Clubs committee; Mrs. Angelo Cardamon, 220 Willow drive, Willowood, heads the Publicity committee; Mrs. Martin Newark, 40 Ruby lane, Red Cedar, is chairman of the Music committee; and Mrs. Clyde F. Checking Gas Fumes

The incident started Thursday night when Presley, who has recorded such rock 'n roll hits as "Houn' Dog," "Heartbreak Hotel" and "Don't Be Cruel" pulled his white Lincoln into a downtown service station to find out if gas fumes were leaking into the car through the air conditioner.

Hopper said he tried to find the trouble with Presley's car without success and twice asked the singer to move so that other cars could get up to the pumps.

Hopper said on the third trip, "Presley told me, 'I'll move when I'm ready.' That kind of made me mad. I slapped at him, kind of brushing his face, anyway I hit him."

Teenager Finds Wallet With $189

Joe Antrobus, 15, of 29 Moreau street, Morrisville, stopped Patrolman Joseph Cavanaugh Wednesday and gave him a wallet he found a few minutes earlier under the railroad bridge at Philadelphia and South Pennsylvania avenue.

The wallet contained $189. Officer Cavanaugh turned the wallet over to Patrolman Clifton Morris who returned the wallet, and the $189 to its grateful owner, John Balog, 209 Anderson avenue, Morrisville.

John T. Welsh, chairman of the Bucks County commissioners, extended greetings and introduced the governor. Other guests of honor included Dr. Boehm and Mr. Snyder; Judge I. Louis Rubin; Assemblyman A. Patrick Brennan; Col. John Cummings, curator of the Bucks County Historical Society; and honorary chairmen Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr. and I. Johnson Hetherington, Sr., former burgesses. Members of the anniversary committee were also introduced by the toastmaster.

The banquet was opened by Harry E. Danner, general chairman, who said he has been greatly "enthused and inspired" by the work of the various committees in making anniversary plans.

Tracing the brief history of the celebration planning, he related how an editorial in the Bristol Courier and Levittown Times set the program in motion.

Chairman of the banquet was

Horace Schmidt.

Maurice K. Goddard said yesterday in Harrisburg.

The land for the park was donated to the state in the will of the late Robert R. Logan.

The park site is located on land facing the Delaware River near the mouth of Neshaminy Creek.

The Department in the very near future will ask a board of park consultants for advice on how best to use the vast area for public recreation.

Firm To Start Building Plant In Middletown

Eastern Coating Company, of Philadelphia, is expected to start work shortly on its proposed pipe treating plant in Middletown Township, following the issuance of a building permit by township officials yesterday.

Angus T. Johnson, township manager, reported that the firm will start work on an all-purpose building, which will serve as an office, and storage building, as soon as possible. In addition there will be locker and washroom facilities for employees in the building.

The firm had submitted a request for a building permit last month but it was delayed until plans for a sewage disposal system were approved by the county health department.

Mr. Johnson said he understands the company wants to have the building completed before winter sets in.

The company has obtained a tract of land off the Reading Company's tracks near the Big Oak road. It will be used for the storage and coating of industrial steel pipes.

22,000 Pupils In Area Have Free Day

Today was a holiday for some 22,000 Lower Bucks County school children as their teachers dropped their classes to return to school themselves.

Five school systems in this area closed down for the day as teachers participated in the "Schoolmen's Week" program at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

The Delhaas and Bristol township systems freed 8000 pupils today as a large delegation of teachers left for classes and lectures at the University of Pennsylvania.

Visit Fair

Bristol Borough schools were also closed and the students used the holiday as an opportunity to visit the Mill Street Fair in observance of the community's 275th anniversary.

Other systems having no school today are: Neshaminy with 5200 students; Bensalem with 3000 pupils; Centennial with 2800.

Pupils in the Pennsbury, Tullytown and Morrisville schools were not so lucky as classes were held as usual today.

The Centennial schools are in the midst of evaluating their programs and the faculty was not able to attend the sessions at the University of Pennsylvania. Classes were dismissed anyway as teachers attended numerous conferences within the system.

Highlighting the activities at Schoolmen's Week observance was a talk by Dr. Charles H. Boehm, head of the State Department of Public Instruction who is on leave as Bucks County Superintendent of Schools.

Alert Boy Helps Police

Francis Perrone, 23, Philadelphia, was being held in Bucks County prison today on a charge of burglarizing an air compressor from a farm behind Our Lady of Grace Cemetery on Lincoln Highway.

Perrone told Middletown township police he thought the abandoned compressor was "just an old piece of junk."

The Philadelphia man was tripped up by the alertness of the young son of cemetery superintendent Walter Kaye.

The boy saw Perrone pull up into the farm and examine the compressor. He told police he looked suspicious so he wrote down the license number of the truck.

About a half hour later, the truck returned to the farm, picked up the compressor and started off.

Police picked up Perrone shortly thereafter on information received from the boy and another truck driver, who spotted the compressor in Perrone's truck.

State Act Cited At Meeting Of Committee

Police Committee Chairman John V. Sawyer last night told members of the police committee of the Morrisville Borough council that Pennsylvania State Law requires that any borough having eight policemen or more is required to have a pension plan.

Under Act 600, Pennsylvania State Law, (Police Retirement Legislation), enacted during the last session of the legislature, policemen will receive half of their highest five years of salary when they retire.

The law states that the minimum retirement age is 60 and the maximum age is 65. The men are eligible for the pension if they have 25 years of service with one community.

Previously, Mr. Sawyer said, the borough had a plan whereby the policemen contributed 2 per cent of their salary a year to a pension fund and the balance was made up with insurance casualty funds.

The new plan will have the borough match the 3 per cent required of patrolmen to contribute to the fund. All policemen in the Borough of Morrisville have at least $12,500 in insurance policies in addition to the pension fund, Mr. Sawyer said.

The new plan will go into effect Jan. 1, 1957, pending Borough Council approval at the November meeting.

The matter of more police protection for the Grandview Estates area and the plan to remove parking meters from Market street were not discussed last night, Mr. Sawyer said, but will be discussed at a later committee meeting.

Besides the committee, Chief John S. Davis and two members of the Morrisville Police department, and two representatives of the Grandview Estates Civic association, attended the meeting.

Punish Israel, Jordan Asks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — UP—Jordan demanded today that the United Nations invoke diplomatic and economic sanctions against Israel.

It warned that if the Security Council does not act "to stop the Israeli aggression" immediately, "other methods" must be found to guarantee the Palestine borders.

Jordanian Ambassador Abdul Monem Rifai told the Security Council Israeli incursions could not be described as "border incidents."

"It is war," he said, "except that it lacks the rules of war, the bravery of war, and the honor and morals of war. It could only be identified as an 'Israeli war'! In the darkness! At midnight! When human beings go to sleep, the evil spirit of the Israelis awakes and sneaks out for murder! Collective murder!"

Bride Faces Loss Of Leg

OKLAHOMA CITY UP — Mrs. Laroy Jay, 17, married just Wednesday night, will have her right leg amputated today to prevent spreading of cancer—an operation everyone at the wedding knew was coming except the joyful bride.

Doctors hoped amputation of the leg just below the hip would prevent spreading of bone cancer, which eats away bone structure and could prove fatal.

Mrs. Jay, the former Cherrie Lee Thompson, bubbled with happiness Wednesday when she exchanged vows with Laroy, a Korean War veteran stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C. He knew she faced a leg amputation and had secured an emergency furlough.

But Cherrie didn't know. She was told Thursday as her husband, her sweetheart for years, held her hand.

Dr. C. R. Rountree was understanding, but serious, as he broke the news. He told Cherrie X-rays indicated only the leg bone was infected. Whether the operation will halt the cancer, only time will tell, he said.

Morrisville Discusses Police Pension Plan

Area State Park Plans Are Pushed

Plans for the new state park in Eddington are proceeding smoothly, Forests and Waters Secretary

Maurice K. Goddard said yesterday in Harrisburg.

The land for the park was donated to the state in the will of the late Robert R. Logan.

The park site is located on land facing the Delaware River near the mouth of Neshaminy Creek.

The Department in the very near future will ask a board of park consultants for advice on how best to use the vast area for public recreation.

The benefactor died last summer, on a Western trip. He was a descendant of James Logan, an associate of William Penn in the founding of Pennsylvania.

The estate was used as an artists' and writers' colony, and in an experiment in communal living.

Officials of the Bucks County Planning Commission recently discussed the park plan with state officials. Other state parks in Bucks County are Washington Crossing and Ralph Stover Parks.

Seeing Levittown

By JIM ORT

A pair of ducks belonging to a family in the North Park section, is keeping the residents amused. Donald and Daisy, the ducks, always travel together. Where one goes, the other follows. It seems, according to Mrs. Francis Hickey, 23 Nasturtium lane, that the pair of water fowl are particularly fond of potato chips.

Next time you drive through the North Park section, take a look at the home of Joseph G. Parto, New Pond lane. It was brick-coated this week. The new exterior sure adds to the appearance.

Levittown women are well represented in the Bucks County Federation of Women's clubs. Five women are county chairmen. Mrs. Durwood LaMont, 7 Pleasant lane, Pinewood, is chairman of the Mental Health committee; Mrs. David Price, 83 Kingwood road, Lenwood, is chairman of the International Clubs committee; Mrs. Angelo Cardamon, 220 Willow drive, Willowood, heads the Publicity committee; Mrs. Martin Newark, 40 Ruby lane, Red Cedar, is chairman of the Music committee; and Mrs. Clyde F. Brown, 46 Silver Birch lane, Stonybrook, heads the Community Affairs committee.

Checking Gas Fumes

The incident started Thursday night when Presley, who has recorded such rock 'n' roll hits as "Houn' Dog," "Heartbreak Hotel" and "Don't Be Cruel" pulled his white Lincoln into a downtown service station to find out if gas fumes were leaking into the car through the air conditioner.

Hopper said he tried to find the trouble with Presley's car without success and twice asked the singer to move so that other cars could get up to the pumps.

Hopper said on the third trip, "Presley told me, 'I'll move when I'm ready.' That kind of made me mad. I slapped at him, kind of brushing his face, anyway I hit him."

22,000 Pupils In Area Have Free Day

Today was a holiday for some 22,000 Lower Bucks County school children as their teachers dropped their classes to return to school themselves.

Five school systems in this area closed down for the day as teachers participated in the "Schoolmen's" Week program at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

The Delhaas and Bristol township systems freed 8000 pupils today as a large delegation of teachers left for classes and lectures at the University of Pennsylvania.

Visit Fair

Bristol Borough schools were also closed and the students used the holiday as an opportunity to visit the Mill Street Fair in observance of the community's 275th anniversary.

Other systems having no school today are: Neshaminy with 5200 students; Bensalem with 3000 pupils; Centennial with 2800.

Pupils in the Pennsbury, Tullytown and Morrisville schools were not so lucky as classes were held as usual today.

The Centennial schools are in the midst of evaluating their programs and the faculty was not able to attend the sessions at the University of Pennsylvania. Classes were dismissed anyway as teachers attended numerous conferences within the system.

Highlighting the activities at Schoolmen's Week observance was a talk by Dr. Charles H. Boehm, head of the State Department of Public Instruction who is on leave as Bucks County Superintendent of Schools.

Political Chat Ends In Killing Of Brother

WESTON, W. Va. — UP — An 11-year-old boy stabbed his brother to death with a pocket knife in what authorities said was a "sort of political argument."

Arden Thomas Wright told police he did not mean to stab his brother, Paul, 13. He said he lunged in the direction of another youth, but the intended victim stepped aside and the blade plunged into his brother's chest.

Prosecutor William L. Fury said Arden would be charged with murder.

Walking to School

Fury said the stabbing occurred as the brothers and several other boys discussed politics while walking to school.

Arden identified himself as a Republican while most of the other boys said they were Democrats, Fury said.

The discussion got heated and a fight followed.

Got Scared

Fury said Arden told him three youths grabbed him and he "got scared and tried to fight my way out."

The boy said he took the knife from his pocket, opened it and lunged at one of the other boys. The two-inch blade penetrated Paul's heart and he died a few minutes after being brought to a nearby hospital.

Arden was held in Lewis County jail.
